Attorneys mum on wrongful death settlement figure

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
A Hancock County Circuit Court jury was dismissed Tuesday evening after a settlement was reached in a $1.5 million wrongful death suit shortly before expected close of the trial which had begun Monday.

Attorneys for plaintiffs James Willard Terrell, Alvin Terrell, Carol Terrell Smith and Iris Terrell Hughes and defendants Roger Hearn and William Schrag declined to give the amount of the settlement, but plaintiffs' attorney Tim C. Holleman called it a "fair" settlement.

The suit arose from an accident Dec. 4, 1981, accident on Ansley Road about .6 miles from U.S.-90 between Myrtle Ruth Terrell, 60, of Ansley, wife of James Terrell and mother of the other plaintiffs, and Hearn, who was driving a truck and trailer transporting some 24,000 pounds of construction steel to Port Bienville Industrial Park. Terrell was killed in the collision. Schrag was the owner of the truck Hearn was driving. Both Hearn and Schrag are residents of Indiana.

Bryant, Stennis and Colingo of Gulfport, who represented the defendants along with Gerald C. Gex of Bay St. Louis.

"From the point of impact back to the intersection of Ansley Road and U.S.-90 there were no driveways, no roads to turn off on."

"He couldn't pull off the road and he couldn't back up."

Under questioning by plaintiffs' attorney Hearn said he did not blow his two air horns before entering the smoke because he needed both hands on the wheel.

After the accident, Hearn said, his vehicles jackknifed into a ditch on his left-hand side.

He kicked open the door of his truck, ran back to the pickup and found Terrell dead, then went back to his rig because he was worried that it would explode.

"Isn't it a fact you never hit your brakes?" Holleman asked.

"That's very possible," Hearn responded, "because I didn't have time."

Tartavouille testified that when he arrived at the scene both the 18-wheeler and the truck were in the northbound lane.

But Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay testified that, according to the accident report filed by investigators, the position of the vehicles and marks in the road indicated Terrell had been in the southbound lane at the time of the collision.

Terrell's children testified about their close relationship with their mother, who was a nurse's aide at Slidell Memorial Hospital.

They said their father, who is disabled, still grieves for their mother and speaks of her daily.

The three children now care for their father by helping him with cleaning, cooking and other household tasks, they said.

In an audio-visual deposition Terrell's sister Shirley Merritt of Pearl-ington testified that her sister had loved gardening and animals and had kept livestock at the Terrell home until her death.

Most of the animals, Merritt said, have been sold.

"There's no garden now because James (Terrell) can't take care of it—we wiped it out."

While Seay was on the witness stand Strain elicited testimony that following the accident Alvin Terrell had asked

$13,500 grant approved for Bayou Cadet study

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
A $13,500 Coastal Zone Management grant was approved Tuesday by the Mississippi Wildlife Conservation Commission for pre-engineering studies for a possible commercial harbor at Bayou Cadet Marina, Commissioner Joseph Gex of Bay St. Louis reported Wednesday.

"We're going to do the study, but the funds will be funneled through the Hancock County Board of Supervisors," Gex said.

Jerry Mitchell, chief of the coastal programs division for the Bureau of Marine Resources, said the matter will be taken to the supervisors Thursday.

"Essentially, they will be entering into a contract with the Department of Wildlife Conservation to do a feasibility study and schematic work," he said.

Earlier, the supervisors asked BMR officials through the commission to assist with attempts to establish a harbor at Bayou Cadet.

"This is the first step," Mitchell said. According to Mitchell the study is scheduled to begin Sept. 31 and should be completed by Dec. 31.

BMR officials will provide technical assistance for the project.

Problems only rumor, director says

Harmony prevails at Bay band's gym camp-out

By DENA BISNETTE
Controversy over housing a group of band students in the Bay High School gymnasium during a one-week camp appears to be based on rumor, according to band director William Ellis.

Ellis told a dozen parents who attended a special meeting Monday night that he believes the controversy is based on rumors caused by lack of information about the camp.

"The parents I've talked to are concerned because other people have contacted them with rumors about the camp. The rumors didn't come from the band members' parents," Ellis said.

About 40 students are involved in the camp, which ends Friday. During the camp, their 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. schedule includes about nine hours of organized practice time.

Ellis has received some inquiries about the length of the schedule and whether the meals provided to the campers are adequate and nutritionally balanced, but said sleeping arrangements were the major concern of most parents who contacted him.

The students are camping on the gym floor with sleeping bags, inflatable mattresses and similar equipment.

Ellis said they have been separated with the boys on one side of the floor and the girls on the other side and four adult chaperones patrol the gym at all times during the night.

"The only problems we had during the first night were roaches and getting them to settle down," Ellis told the parents. "Getting them to go to sleep after a full day of practice won't be as hard as it was the first night, and the place has been sprayed so we won't have any more roaches."

Ellis expects no discipline problems. "They are well aware that a severe penalty awaits any student who does something unacceptable after lights out," he explained.

"This controversy is all apparently rumor from what I can see, because I have yet to have anyone confront me or call me with specific accusations," Ellis commented.

He said various school administrators including Superintendent J.D. McCulloch had visited the gym during the first day of band camp and said he had received no complaints from them. He added that the school administration had been "very supportive."

"If the administration had not allowed us to use their facilities, we would not have been able to hold a band camp this year," Ellis said.

Original plans called for taking the band members to facilities at Holmes County State Park or Pearl River Junior College.

The park was ruled out because going there would have cost $100 per band member and summer fund raising projects failed to raise that amount. Pearl River did not have facilities available during August, Ellis said.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS CAUCUS
The Fifth Congressional Young Democrats Caucus will be held Friday, Aug. 31, at noon in the Biloxi Library, according to Hilda Bourg, Hancock County Executive Committee secretary. Young Democrats ages 16-26 interested in participating can call Bourg at 255-1299. Mrs. William Winter will address this caucus.

Owner says De-Ahna's will reopen Tuesday

By DENA BISNETTE
De-Ahna's Night Gallery will reopen Tuesday despite bankruptcy and a pending copyright infringement suit, its owner says.

Digna A. Ray has filed for bankruptcy listing secured claims of $37,178 and unsecured claims of $19,357. The bankruptcy plan proposes monthly payments to trustee Donald D. Simmons of Gulfport with 70 cents on the dollar to be paid on unsecured claims.

A creditor's meeting will be held Sept. 5 in the Federal Building at Biloxi.

She also faces a copyright infringement suit filed against her last Wednesday in Federal Court in Biloxi by Broadcast Music Inc.

BMI alleges in the suit that eight musical compositions to which the company owns performance rights were performed at De-Ahna's during a three-year period and is asking for $2,000 in damages.

Ms. Ray called Wednesday from Florida, stating that she has temporarily closed De-Ahna's but will reopen the night club Tuesday.

Her reason for closing, she said, was a misunderstanding with a representative of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission that occurred last week when it was found that the master bartender at De-Ahna's was not qualified for a liquor license.

When it reopens, De-Ahna's will serve liquor only when Ms. Ray, who is qualified for a liquor license, is present and will operate on a beer and wine license when she is not.

Ms. Ray said she is presently looking for a manager who is qualified for a liquor license and can operate the club when she is away from Bay St. Louis.

"I haven't violated the law or anything," she said.

She also stated that she does not understand why BMI has filed suit against her. "I sent them the check," she said, referring to a fee charged for

Conservation commissioners say they cannot ban Army deer hunt

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
The Mississippi Wildlife Conservation Commission says it has no authority to ban hunting on land leased to the U.S. Department of the Army.

Commission member Joseph Gex of Bay St. Louis said the commission received a petition presented by Ronnie Ferrell and Bob Bowman Tuesday protesting plans announced by the Army to allow archery hunting of deer at its Army ammunition plant at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

"The position the Department of Wildlife Conservation has taken is that the Army is a private landowner by virtue of its lease with NASA," Gex said.

"There is no legal authority to open or close that land as long as they're abiding by our regulatory limits."

"They are within their rights, like any other landowner would be."

"That is our legal position."

Gex said the commissioners told Ferrell and Bowman that should the Army request another study, the commission would be willing to conduct it.

He also reported that Department employees Seth Mott, chief of game, and Bill Thompson, area biologist, both said they would "cooperate 100 percent" in such a survey.

"We also told them that if the Army requested it, we would get in touch with the Southeast Wildlife Disease Center in Athens, Ga. and have them come down and do a spot check to see if any of the deer are infested with disease.

But both requests, Gex emphasized, would have to originate with the Army.

A number of Hancock, Pearl River and Harrison County residents are opposed to the hunt because, they say, they were promised the area would be preserved as a wildlife refuge.

They also say that many of the deer are tame and that a hunt would not be sporting.

A March, 1983 study of deer indicated an overpopulation.

Hunt opponents claim the study was conducted following a period of high water which caused deer to move onto the Army site from lower areas.

State sets new policies on county road fund use

State Auditor Ray Mabus has issued a memorandum to county boards of supervisors which broadens the policies of a Jan. 14 ruling dealing with providing gravel for private use, work on private property and grave-digging.

The new guidelines outline permitted and prohibited uses of money and labor from road funds and address the following topics:

—Private roads—The jurisdiction of boards of supervisors over roads is limited to public roads only.

—The use of public funds for construction and maintenance (including laying of gravel) of private roads or driveways is not authorized by law, and the members of the board are personally liable for the cost of illegally constructing and maintaining such roads. A road leading from a public road to a person's residence or a road circling from the public road by a person's house and back to the public road is a private road," the memorandum says.

—County roads and culverts—Boards must maintain roads and rights of way, but not beyond private property lines. If culverts are needed to properly drain public roads, boards may install culverts and perform other maintenance work.

—However, the board has no authority to install culverts for the exclusive use of abutting landowners.

—Drainage ditches—Boards may acquire a drainage easement from a landowner and cut across his land to provide drainage of the road and right of way, but a ditch constructed on private property for the exclusive benefit of the landowner is prohibited.

—Burials—The burial of paupers and strangers, but not solvent residents, may be paid for by boards of supervisors.

—Public roads by dedication—The owner must donate the right of way over his land while indicating his intention that the general public shall enjoy the road on his private property.

In addition, the board must accept the easement by a formal resolution or by taking over maintenance of the road.

The general public must have an interest in the road before it can be dedicated.

—Public roads by prescription—In addition to having been habitually used by the general public for at least 10 years, there must be other evidence, such as a formal resolution or order of the board of continuous maintenance of the road by the board.

—Establishing a public road—Ten or more householders or property owners interested in the road must sign a petition.

—School bus turn-arounds—Boards must obtain a valid easement from the appropriate landowner in order to provide a turn-around.

The easement must be recorded among land records at the courthouse and the minutes of the board should reflect the acceptance of such easements, including location and description of each site and notice of approval by the local school board.

The approval must be made annually before the beginning of the school term.

This policy, Mabus' memorandum states, also applies to private driveways of school bus drivers when those drivers are allowed to keep school buses at their homes.

Owner thwarts automobile theft

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A Louisiana man was arrested and charged with attempted auto theft and simple assault after the owner of the automobile caught him in the act of stealing the car.

Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn said Patrick H. Reagan, 55, of 4400 Elmwood Park, Metairie, La., has been released under bond.

The incident occurred about 8:30 a.m. Tuesday morning outside the Waveland Resort Inn, where the owner of the car was staying.

Dorn said Reagan allegedly pulled a knife when the owner of the car came out of the inn and saw him.

The case was handled by Patrolman Oscar Thomas and Investigator Robert Tartavouille, both of the Waveland Police Department, Dorn said.

The time of year when our kids start back to school is always special. For them, it's a chance to get reacquainted and start learning again. For us, it's time to start helping out with homework — or to take on the Little League car pool.

And one more important responsibility. It's a season to watch out for our gang. Getting on and off buses. Walking home on city streets. Crossing intersections. Going all the places kids go before and after class.

Kids are a community asset. That's why our hospital cares a lot, too. After all, no one has a higher stake in their well being than we do.

When school starts this year, let's keep a sharp eye out for "our gang" — all our school-age kids.

Quotables by Cuevas

It was a great day on Monday at the World Exposition in New Orleans.

Hancock Countians estimated at 900 and then some, helped make 'Salute to Hancock County Day' the largest county celebration thus far at the Mississippi Pavilion.

The success of Hancock County's Day was not something that just developed over night, as much planning had gone into the project.

Some two years ago a delegation from the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce visited the Knoxville World Exposition to get a feel of the celebration.

Many hours of attending meetings by chamber members and others followed.

Most important of all of course, is the fact that Hancock County Day could not have been successful without the participants and the people, each and everyone at the fair for the big day.

Everywhere one turned at the fair, he could see Hancock Countians.

All of the performances drew large crowds, and best of all, many were persons from other areas. They too were impressed with Mississippi's Pavilion and Hancock County's participation.

The performers of Hancock North Central's band, Country Sounds, American Legions and Auxiliaries, the Mardi Gras krewe, the Mississippi Army National Guard, the Acker Inspirational Ensemble, and Piccola's School of Dance all should be commended on a job well done.

The crafts of Lucille Luke and Ellsworth Collins of Bay St. Louis were all viewed by thousands of fairgoers and received a number of complimentary comments.

The county and two cities were well represented by numerous political leaders.

As always, Stewart Nelson of the Naval Oceanographic Office at NSTL, Hancock County Day chairman, did a fine job coordinating the opening ceremonies as well as being the emcee.

It was a tremendous honor in having George Williams make a special appearance at the opening ceremonies. We especially liked his comments about Tish Haas, the Mississippi Pavilion director, who is a native of our county.

We do not want to forget several persons we know who worked very hard in lining up the chartered buses. Clarice Gustin, chamber executive director, and Melanie Mitchell, chamber secretary put many hours of work on the project.

We know Dave Treutel, chamber director and tourism chairman, was well pleased and we saw him smiling all day long.

The entire staff at the Mississippi Pavilion did a fantastic job, and we enjoyed the special refreshments.

We know some 60 people who rode Amtrak were a little disappointed as they missed the opening ceremonies due to an accident.

It seems an 18-wheeler tried to beat the train in New Orleans East and lost. Lucky no one was injured, but they too enjoyed their day at the fair.

We had a good time too, just a little tired from lugging camera and bag around all day and part of the night.

By the way, if you have not visited the fair as yet, we feel you are really missing a great opportunity.

If you go, do visit the Mississippi Pavilion and tell Tish Haas hello, and see for yourself what our state is showing the world.

Bowhunter lauds Army proposal for Test Site deer herd management

Dear Editor,

I would like to respond to the Sunday, Aug. 19 edition of The Sea Coast Echo concerning the protest by local sportsmen against a deer hunt that the U.S. Army is proposing as a part of its management of the fee-area deer herd.

First let me state clearly that I have no intention of signing up for the hunt at the present time.

But there are many statements that were made that disturb me greatly.

One, for instance, is Cynthia Hatten's statement that she is 100 percent against all hunting anyway.

What Ms. Hatten may not realize is that we hunters are the ones who foot the bill to manage wildlife through our license and special tax dollars (which total millions) so that future generations can enjoy wildlife the way we do and our forefathers did.

Another point I would like to add is that we have more white-tail deer today than we did in 1900.

Also, Mississippi has the third largest population of white-tail deer in the United States.

This did not come about through mismanagement.

Too many deer in a herd can be as bad as not having any.

They are very susceptible to disease and malnutrition.

Also, deer rarely travel more than a mile or two from where they are born their whole lifetime.

They would starve before moving to unfamiliar areas that contain more food.

Another thing that the sportsmen who protested the hunt don't realize is that Ms. Hatten is against them also.

Tomorrow the Fund for Animals will be out to take their guns.

In other words we hunters must stick together and not side with groups such as this.

A comment was also made that bow and arrow is a brutal way to harvest an animal.

I have hunted with a bow and arrow for many years and I can assure anyone that our specially-designed hunting arrow is a very effective weapon that inflicts a minimal amount of pain to the animal.

Another comment that was made by Hancock Supervisor Sam Pernicaro was, "It would be a slaughterhouse for pet deer."

I can assure him that the number of deer we have in Hancock County are not alive by being stupid.

Just recently I myself and another hunter saw two deer in the middle of the City of Waveand.

Tell those deer that they are stupid.

I do 90 percent of my hunting on private property that contains a deer herd that is virtually undisturbed except during archery season.

There are also other bowhunters hunting this land who I feel are among the best bowhunters in the state, or even the country, yet when we get our biologist's report from the State Game and Fish Commission, we find that we can't kill enough deer using bows to keep our deer herd in proper balance.

I feel our state game and fish department should know if anybody would.

In closing I would like to say that I wish the U.S. Army all the success in the world in the management of their white-tail deer program.

With programs such as this we will be able to enjoy the whitetail for many years.

Sincerely,
A Concerned Bowhunter

P.S. I love the white-tail deer as much as any animal lover could. Ask any dedicated bowhunter, he will know what I mean.

Anti-hunt group's support of opposition to bow hunt at Test Site a threat to all hunters

8-21-84

To The Editor,

After reading the Sunday's issue of The Sea Coast Echo I found it very disturbing that there is so much controversy over the planned opening of the Army Ammunition plant site for an archery season on deer.

One apparent issue is whether or not the Department of Wildlife Conservation along with Mississippi State University has conducted a valid study of the deer herd in the area to be hunted.

Apparently, many are questioning the validity of the report.

Well, shouldn't the record speak for itself?

According to recent publications in several national outdoors magazines, Mississippi now has the third largest whitetail deer population in the United States, thanks to a combined effort by the DWC and the sportsmen throughout the state.

That is that this type of controversy is exactly what the anti-hunting organizations thrive on.

These groups take a stand of "No Hunting," not just archery but gun hunting also.

The presence of these anti-hunting groups can do nothing but eventually interfere with everyone's right to hunt.

Health Hotline

Q: My breasts seem to get lumpy every month before my period. Afterward, the lumps seem much smaller but they never go away completely. Should I go to my doctor for an exam?

A: You are to be commended for checking your breasts for masses regularly. This should be a regular part of every woman's life and it can make all the difference if a tumor is found when it is small and easily treatable. The increased lumpy feeling before your period is a well-known phenomenon and relates to the hormonal changes occurring at that time. The best time for a breast exam is a few days after your period. Many women have chronically lumpy breasts and this makes exams more difficult. Regular mammograms (a special x-ray of the breast) are helpful in these cases. Any lump which concerns you should be checked by your doctor. Some research has shown that cutting caffeine from the diet tends to reduce the number and size of benign breast lumps so you should consider a switch to decaffeinated drinks.

From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

The Board of Economic Development recently initiated work on some of the most important tasks that will occur during our administration.

In a 10-hour work session, the board—of which I am chairman—met to review the 1985 plan of action for the state's principal economic development agency.

During the meeting, we heard presentations from the staff of the Department of Economic Development about their recommendations for programs that will bring Mississippi forward into a new economic development period in our state's history.

During the meeting, the board members decided we must give more attention and assistance to in-state industries that want to locate in Mississippi and want to stay in Mississippi.

While the old adage of "chasing smoke stacks" to find new industries has worked, to some extent in the past, we need to find new methods of economic advancement for the people of Mississippi.

Too often the new industries that selected Mississippi as a location brought their own mid and upper management employees. And too often those industries paid minimum wage and little more to those Mississippians that they hired.

We need to find methods for giving Mississippians better paying jobs and more jobs. For example, last month the Employment Service reported that Mississippi was one of only four states in the country with an unemployment rate higher than 10 percent.

Our unemployment of 10.5 percent was the fourth highest in the country. We trailed West Virginia, Michigan and Alabama. A state with a low standard of living like Mississippi simply cannot afford such a high unemployment level.

The Board of Economic Development is now hoping to use all the resources available to state government to improve the economic standing of our citizens.

We are planning to use the industrial outreach programs available to us through Economic Development, but we also want to use job training programs offered through the Department of Education.

As governor, the two most vital needs I see for the people of Mississippi are education and economic development. I believe—and studies prove this true—that once you get those things on track, many of our problems can be solved. An increased economy increases the tax base of our state and allows us to provide better services in the areas of health care and social services.

Education is the top priority for economic development. I was very pleased last week when the Board of Economic Development voted unanimously that we are in favor of full implementation of the Education Reform Act. The board membership stated that we realize that education is the key that opens the door to economic development for our citizens.

We are in the process of re-evaluating the economic development philosophy for our state. I have appointed a six-member subcommittee to begin a nationwide search for a new director for the Department of Economic Development.

Our Department of Economic Development should begin a new sales program for the state that features the new Mississippi—a Mississippi that is on the move, that is growing, and that is the best place to live for all of us. We are no longer the Old South of antebellum skirts and mansions; those are our tourist attractions.

Today we are the land of new technologies, new philosophies, and new friendships. That's the image we want to give to the rest of the country.

Dr. David K. Brown, former director of Human Services Management Systems (HSMS) in Lafayette, La., has been named director of the Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA). Dr. David B. Wilson, MCOA chairman, made the announcement recently.

MCOA, an agency of the Governor's Office of Human Development (GOHD), is charged with the responsibility of providing services to the approximately 400,000 Mississippians 60 years of age and older.

The council provides a statewide meals program, information and referral, ombudsman and legal assistance programs.

HSMS, a private consulting agency dealing with human service agencies and community based groups, provides management training services to groups including the Louisiana Governor's Office of Elderly Affairs, West Virginia Commission on Aging, Hospice of Acadiana and the Lafayette Area Agency on Aging.

"We are excited to have a person of Dr. Brown's caliber join us at the Council on Aging," said Michael Raff, director of the Office of Human Development. "He brings a depth of knowledge and experience in elderly concerns coupled with an enthusiastic commitment to elderly Mississippians."

Brown received his bachelor's degree from King's College in New York, a master's in political science from New York University and his doctorate degree from West Virginia University.

Brown served as visiting professor and later as professor of political science at Concord College in Athens, W.Va. While there, he served as a research consultant to the West Virginia Commission on Aging in a study of area agencies on aging and other components of the state's aging services network.

He also served as associate professor and director of academic programs at the Center for Study of the Aging, University of Alabama, and director of the Community Development Regional Planning Program at Concord College.

Brown has received numerous awards and honors and authored essays, articles and publications on political science, human services and aging. He has presented numerous papers and conducted workshops relating to aging issues.

His professional affiliations include the Southern Gerontological Society, the American Rural Health Association, the American Association of Planning Officials and the American Political Science Association.

Brown serves as chairman of the finance committee of the Hospice of Acadiana, board member and planning committee member of the RSVP of Lafayette, a member of the victim assistance committee of MADD of Lafayette and a member of Compassionate Friends of Lafayette.

He is married to Wanda McDonald-Brown.

Tips On Eye Care

By Mitchell Shapiro, M.D.

Q: I am writing you about my dry eyes. I've been to clinics and they tell me to use eye drops, but there is no cure. Can anything be done?

Mrs. D.C., Rockwell, Iowa

Dear Mrs. C.D.: "Dry eyes" is a common problem among older Americans in particular. Because of the nature of the problem, dry eyes is usually lumped in with such "rheumatoid" disorders as arthritis. And unfortunately, there is no hard and fast cure.

The eye produces tears as a way of cleansing and lubricating the eyeball. As we age, our bodies sometimes lose the ability to produce tears, or to produce and circulate them at a rate which allows for natural comfort.

Rarely does dry eyes produce any serious repercussions. The worst effect is the feeling of discomfort it causes. Your eyes may redden and itch, and you may feel yourself rubbing them a lot.

There are several products out on the market now to reduce the discomfort of dry eyes. They are called, simply enough, "artificial tears." Most of the most popular products available now do not require a prescription, but can be purchased over the counter. Ask your pharmacist to assist you.

These artificial tears products are not all the same. They are relatively inexpensive, so you can probably afford to experiment a little. If one product does not provide the relief you are seeking, try another.

You might want to consider one of the several brand names of products that work like suppositories, secreting gradually a fluid that lubricates the eye. Many patients feel the suppositories last longer and consequently are easier to maintain.

If you have a question concerning your vision, write to Tips on Eye Care, in care of Florida Eye Clinic, P.O. Box 19446, Fla. 32814.

New adult library program reported

Mississippians will have an opportunity to participate in reading discussion programs in libraries across the state in a special project sponsored by the Mississippi Library Association and the Mississippi Library Commission.

The project, entitled "Mississippi—Let's Talk About It," is one of five pilot projects in the central United States sponsored by the American Library Association and funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Through a competitive process Mississippi was awarded a $18,500 subgrant to develop and present reading discussion programs in the state.

Ultimately, 10 to 15 states across the United States will receive some $250,000 for programs in at least 150 local libraries.

In Mississippi the project will be coordinated by Barbara Carroon, vice president and president-elect of MLA.

Linda Gates, MLC's assistant director for library development, will serve as program director.

Planning committee members include MLA President Anice Powell, director of the Sunflower County Library; Dr. Peggy Preshaw, associate dean of the graduate school of the University of Southern Mississippi; Dr. Katharine Rea, professor emerita, University of Mississippi; Dr. Jerry Ward, chairman of the Department of English, Tougaloo College; and Becky Pearce, institutions consultant at MLC.

According to Carroon, the Mississippi project received a big boost with a $1,000 planning grant from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities.

"This grant not only aided us in the planning process," she said, "but showed cooperation with our local humanities agency."

Carroon said the project schedule includes selecting 10 to 15 sites in public libraries around the state during September.

These sites will each hold a series of five programs featuring scholars to lead the discussion groups.

Programs will be scheduled between Feb. 1 and April 30, with a one-day workshop for participating libraries to be held in January.

"Let's Talk About It" is modeled after successful reading discussion programs in New England, Virginia, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Basically, a group of out-of-school adults meets with a local humanities scholar in a community library to discuss a selected theme based on books they all have read.

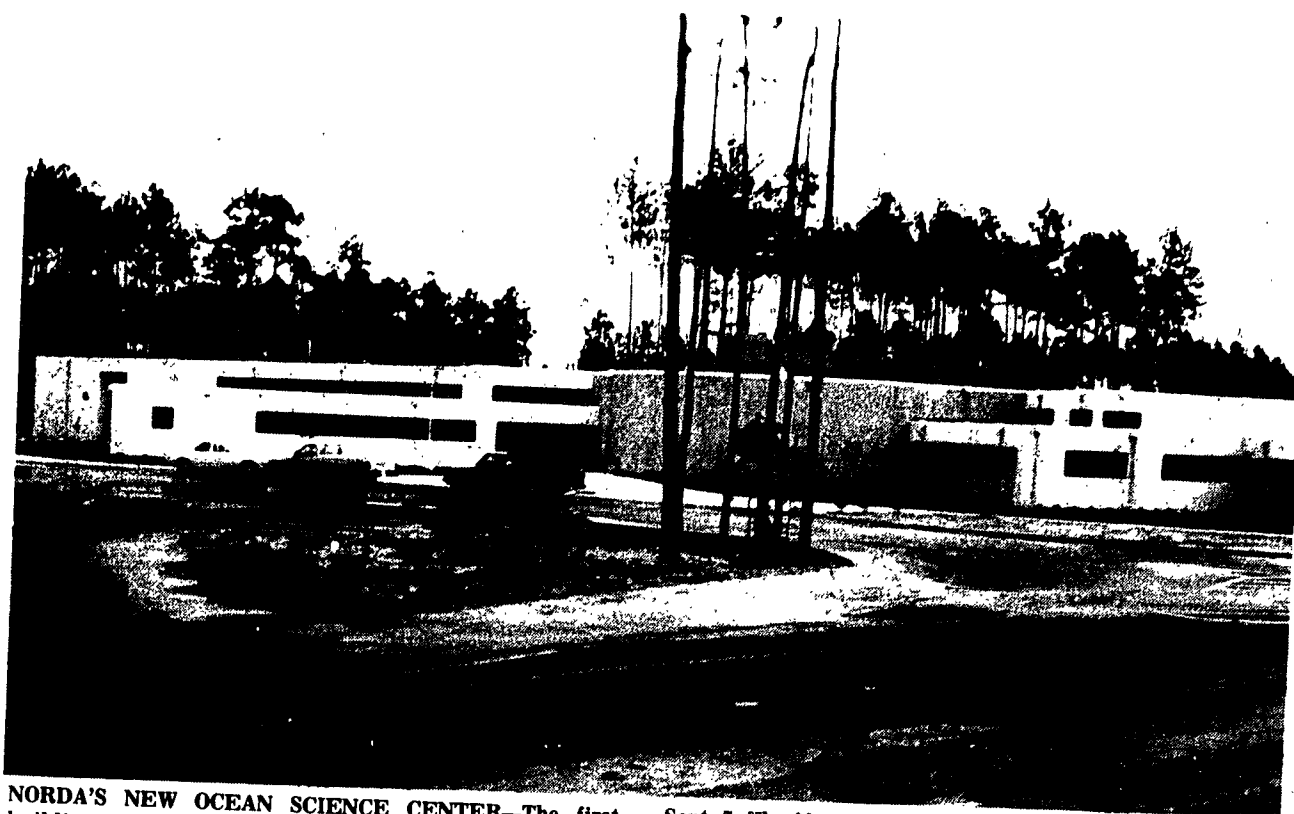

The scholar makes a brief presentation about the book and its author, followed by small group discussions.

One reading discussion program in Virginia attracted more than 300 participants. Groups of 30 to 50 are not uncommon.

In addition to funds, Mississippi will receive materials and technical assistance from the national project to help develop programs in local libraries.

The first American to win a Nobel Prize was Albert Michelson, renowned physicist, in 1907.

NORDA'S NEW OCEAN SCIENCE CENTER—The first building constructed at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County for exclusive use of the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity will be dedicated

Sept. 7. The $6.5 million 62,500-square-foot facility will house executive offices and nearly $2 million worth of equipment. (NORDA photo)

NORDA to dedicate center Sept. 7

Plans are being completed for formal ceremonies to mark the official opening of the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity's new Ocean Science Center on Friday, Sept. 7 at 11 a.m. in front of the new one-story structure, which has been designated as Building 1005.

In the event of rain, the ceremonies will be moved inside to the auditorium area.

The Chief of Naval Research, RADM J.B. Mooney Jr., has agreed to participate in the ceremonies and a number of other federal, state and local officials are being invited to take part as well.

The Ocean Science Center is the first and only building constructed at National Space Technology Laboratories that has been earmarked for the exclusive use of NORDA.

Ground was broken for the 62,500-square-foot facility Aug. 20, 1982. Construction took just two years.

The $6.5 million management, laboratory and administrative support complex was designed by the architectural firm of Barlow and Plunkett of Jackson and was built by Tilley Constructors and Engineers of Gulfport.

The center will house the offices of the commanding officer, the executive officer, the technical director and the directors of the Ocean Acoustics and Technology Directorate and the Ocean Science Directorate and their immediate staffs.

In addition, personnel of the Ocean Acoustics, Ocean Technology and Seafloor Geosciences Divisions will occupy the E-shaped concrete-and-steel structure, and will have at their disposal a large command conference facility and almost $2 million worth of computer systems, audio-visual components, pressure- and temperature-controlled research enclosures, a remotely-controlled traveling crane in a high bay area and other collateral equipment.

Winter continues campaign at Neshoba County Fairgrounds

Democratic senatorial candidate William Winter pledged not to be a "back-bench, go-along" senator during traditional political oratory at Neshoba County Fairgrounds.

"We don't send folks to Washington because they are nice guys or play a good game of tennis. We send folks to Washington because of the serious job there is to do," Winter told a crowd of supporters at the Fair.

The former Mississippi governor said that he would not be a go-along member of the United States Senate regardless of who is President of the United States.

"I am not going to be a back-bench senator. I am not going to a go-along member of the United States Senate whoever the President happens to be," Winter said. Instead he pledged to represent the "unique concerns" of Mississippi which he said he knows well because of his four years as governor and his years in public service.

United Energy pays 62 cents per share

The Board of Directors of United Energy Resources, Inc. declared a quarterly dividend of 62 cents per share payable Oct. 1, 1984 to holders of common stock of record on Sept. 7, 1984.

United Energy Resources, parent company of United Gas Pipe Line Company (interstate gas transmission), United Texas Transmission Company (intrastate gas transmission), Cotton Petroleum Corporation (oil and gas exploration, development and production), United Energy Services Company (contract drilling and well servicing) and PetroUnited, Inc. (bulk liquids terminaling and marketing), had 27,819,736 shares outstanding as of July 31, 1984.

U. S. deficit a 'debt bomb'

Former Gov. William Winter told Tupelo Civilians that America faces a "debt bomb" that could be as devastating as the nuclear bomb.

Winter, speaking at a Civitan Club's noon luncheon in Tupelo said the "bomb" could be detonated by the "record-breaking deficits in the $200 billion range," with effects as "devastating to our economic system as the nuclear bomb would be to our physical systems."

The possibility of triggering the debt bomb "is made more ominous by unprecedented drops in the balance of foreign trade by more than $100 billion, the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate said.

payments—the excess of imports over exports—Winter said: "We have seen the export of manufactured products drop from a favorable balance of $19 billion in 1980 to a deficit of $80 billion this year."

Winter expressed alarm that "we are now borrowing about 25 percent of what we are spending."

The resulting record budget deficits are keeping interest rates higher than the inflation rate, which attracts foreign investment and increases the demand for the dollar, experts say. Economists compare this to the government subsidizing imports and slapping an export tax on products the United States sends abroad.

Judge's opinion chills picketing at clinic

By DENA BISNETTE

Although a judge refused a request for an injunction that would have stopped anti-abortion picketing in front of the New Woman Medical Center, fewer picketers are appearing each day on the strip of grass between the clinic parking lot and US-90.

Judge Jason Floyd refused a request by the clinic operators for an injunction to stop the picketing Friday, recommending in his opinion that the protest be limited to four picketers at one time.

On at least three occasions during the clinic's business hours since the opinion was issued, a Sea Coast Echo reporter looking for picketers found none.

Clinic Administrator Vicki Raley said the picketers seem to have been limiting their numbers on their own since a hearing was held on the injunction request last week.

"We don't have someone out there nine hours a day anymore. Some days their second shift doesn't show up. It's like they just don't have enough people who are interested in coming out here anymore," the administrator said.

Both sides in the controversy have expressed satisfaction with Floyd's opinion.

Beacon Light Clinic, Inc., the Alabama firm that operates New Woman Medical Center, had requested the injunction against several local pastors, including Nathan L. Barber of First Baptist Church, Ernest Culley of Word of Faith Christian Fellowship, Charles Hand of Church of God, Charles Clark of First Assembly of God and Henry McInerney of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church; and layman Bob Hubbard.

The clinic operators alleged that the six defendants had organized the picketing, which they alleged intimidated patients and prospective patients and interfered with their business.

The judge dismissed the case against Hubbard at the end of the hearing, which was held last Wednesday in Gulfport.

In Friday's opinion, Floyd stated that the plaintiff had failed to prove that Clark, McInerney and Hubbard were "involved in the actions complained of to such an extent that they would be subject to the injunctive relief prayed for."

He also said that he believed "an injunction against the defendants Barber and Culley only would not and could not afford any of the relief prayed for to the plaintiff."

Hand was not mentioned in the opinion. However, his attorney Bobby Joe Randall said the dismissal also applied to his client.

"My client and I are indeed gratified that the learned judge has issued an advisory opinion because, along with denying the plaintiff's request for a preliminary injunction, it keeps intact my client's First Amendment rights under the U.S. Constitution," he said.

"There is no doubt, based on the judge's opinion, that my client was fully and completely vindicated from the alleged wrongs of the complaint."

"These people have an absolute right to picket and express themselves openly about having the abortion law changed, as long as they do so lawfully," he added.

He added that he spoke for Hand only, since the other defendants were represented by attorney Joel Blass.

One of Blass' clients, Barber, said the refusal of the injunction was what he expected and that he intends to continue to participate in the picketing. He said he spoke for himself and not for the defendants as a group.

"The defendants were grouped by the people at the clinic, not by our own efforts, and the only time we were together was during the memorial service held in front of the clinic July 28. I think people need to know this," he said.

He also said he interprets Floyd's opinion on limiting the protest to four picketers at a time as a recommendation individual picketers can choose whether to follow.

"It has been widely publicized by the plaintiffs' attorney that they got exactly what they wanted, when in reality the judge denied the injunction. He issued an opinion but it's my understanding that it isn't legally binding," he explained.

Ms. Raley said she agrees with her attorney Garnett Harrison that the judge's opinion is beneficial to the clinic even though the injunction request was denied, especially his recommendations limiting the picketing.

"We got what we feel we've needed. Limiting them to four was a very good move on the judge's part. Also, we would have had to post bond if he had granted the injunction and it would have been very expensive," she explained.

"Our main interest was in keeping the protest peaceful. We have no qualms about having a few picketers out there because we agreed from the start that they have a right to her opinion."

Ms. Raley said the clinic operators were afraid that a large number of protesters could become violent, since most of the violent incidents recently reported at several clinics throughout the country were preceded by peaceful protests.

"Even though the clergymen told me there would be no violence, I felt something had to be done."

Perniciaro Wrecker Service after a truck driven by Parker Buren Kyle of Sharpes, Fla. flipped into the median about 1 p.m. Mississippi Highway Patrol Trooper Howston Dorr said Kyle was traveling west on I-10 in the right-hand lane when another vehicle passed him and slowed down as if it were going to turn off. To avoid hitting that vehicle Kyle moved to the left-hand lane and then, to avoid being hit by another vehicle approaching from the rear, moved onto the shoulder. Dorr said the load of furniture shifted, causing Kyle's truck to flip into the median ditch. Kyle was taken to Hancock General Hospital by Mobile Medic Ambulance Service, treated for broken ribs and released, according to HGH spokesman Mary Perkins. (Staff photo by Nan Patton Ehrbright)

Central America symposium set

"The Crisis in Central America" is the theme for a symposium to be held at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Convention Center Saturday, Aug. 25 from 1 to 5:30 p.m.

The seminar is sponsored by The Ecumenical Study Group, a diverse group of lay people concerned with the current events in Latin America. The program format will include a film outlining historical events, a keynote address and four panelists with expertise in various areas concerning Central America. A question and answer session with the general audience will follow the panel presentation.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Charles Clements. Dr. Clements spent a year providing health care in the rural areas of El Salvador and helped to found the Salvadoran Medical Relief Fund. He has toured the U.S. to share his concern about the crisis in Central America and recently appeared on the Phil Donahue Show. His book, Witness to War, has recently been released.

The panelists will include the Rev. Joe Eldridge, speaking on U.S. policy in Central America. Eldridge is the director of the Washington office on Latin America, a United Methodist minister and a former missionary to Chile. He has accompanied several members of Congress to Central America, and has testified frequently before the House and Senate and has written numerous articles for major newspapers and religious publications.

Also on the panel will be Ivon O. Escobar Melendez, talking on human rights in Central America. Escobar is a former member of the Human Rights Commission of El Salvador, which he helped to found with Archbishop Oscar Romero. He has also served with the Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock in El Salvador.

Panelist Yvonne Dilling will speak on refugees in Central America and sanctuary in the U.S. Ms. Dilling is the Nicaragua Coordinator of Witness for Peace and served as a volunteer for 18 months with refugees on the El Salvador-Honduras border. Her recently published book, In Search of Refuge, is an account of that experience.

Also included will be Thomas Quigley, talking on Liberation Theology and the impact of Christian-based communities. Mr. Quigley is an advisor on Latin American Affairs for the U.S. Catholic Conference in Washington, D.C. He has worked since 1963 with U.S. Catholic Bishops on issues of peace and justice in Central America and is a nationally recognized authority on the influence of Liberation Theology in Latin America. Mr. Quigley has published numerous articles and coordinated many educational events focusing on Liberation Theology issues.

The symposium is educational in nature and invitations are extended to all those interested in increasing their general knowledge in this area. Admission is free.

Vietnam vets reunion scheduled in Jackson

A statewide Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Homecoming Reunion Weekend in Jackson during the weekend of Aug. 24-26 will be sponsored by the Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program.

"Our war did not welcome us home to march proudly together in a victory parade down Main Street cheered by a grateful public. At the time the streets and parades belonged to those who protested our service and drowned out those who supported our efforts. Young and confused, we tended to disappear back into society becoming a fraternity so secret that even we members did not recognize each other," said Tom Desper of Jackson, program spokesman.

"No matter our age, race, occupation or social standing, then or now, Vietnam continues to constitute a 'hometown' which only those who served there share. It is time for us to reunite and finally come home together as proud veterans who served our country well," he cautioned.

The homecoming reunion, which will be headquartered at Parham Bridges Park-South in Jackson, will commence with a free picnic at the Smith-Willis/Jackson Mets Stadium followed by a 'Salute to Vietnam Veterans Night' featuring a softball game between a team of Vietnam veterans against a celebrity team of national and local dignitaries and other well-known Mississippians.

The regularly scheduled Jackson Mets game will follow the softball. Saturday at Parham Bridges Park-South will feature family-oriented events and welcome home remarks by members of the Congressional delegation and other Mississippi notables.

A free noon fish fry will be served by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and a free spaghetti dinner will be furnished by the American Legion that evening. Sunday will center around a morning

Thanksgiving and Remembrance service.

All Vietnam veterans, families and friends are encouraged to bring your campers, tents or just yourselves for all or part of the weekend. For non-campers special rates are available across from the park.

For information contact Desper toll free at 1-800-222-8082.

Vietnamese signs available

Most seafood processors post signs in their plants to remind employees of sanitation requirements. With increasing numbers of Vietnamese being employed in local seafood plants, the processors also needed signs in the Vietnamese language.

Signs were not available in Vietnamese, so some processors asked assistance from the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's seafood quality and technology laboratory. The laboratory offers several services to Mississippi seafood processors, including quality control, processing technology, new product development and plant sanitation.

Training programs and workshops on quality control and sanitation in seafood processing plants also are available in both languages through the seafood quality and technology laboratory. Processors interested in contacting the laboratory for assistance in any of the above areas may telephone Angela Dicharry at 374-5550, or Dr. David W. Cook, at 875-2244 ext. 201.

The quality and technology laboratory is located on the second floor of the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center on East Beach, Biloxi.

law enforcement officials to go back to the scene and consider changing the accident report because he did not believe his mother had been in the wrong lane.

But after Circuit Judge Kosta Vlahos questioned both Seay and Alvin Terrell outside the presence of the jury he ruled there had been no attempt on Terrell's part to persuade officials to submit a fraudulent report.

Seay said Terrell was upset.

"He didn't think the accident report was right and wanted it changed. We said we couldn't change it and that was the end of it."

"We didn't go into what he wanted changed."

Terrell told the judge he drove a tractor-trailer himself for 16 years, and that he had gone to the scene of the accident and looked at tire marks.

"Do you still believe your mother didn't cross the center line?" the judge asked.

"I know it," Terrell responded.

"I'm convinced there was no wrongdoing by the Terrells," Kosta said when he advised the jury the case had been settled.

"And the Hollemans were retained ten days later."

But, Vlahos told the jurors, he advised the attorneys he had great reservations about whether justice could be done after the encounter between Alvin Terrell and Seay was brought before the jury.

The judge told the jurors he consequently asked the attorneys to see if they could settle the case.

"The parties got together and resolved the matter, and the case is at an end," Vlahos said.

"I think the settlement is fair and I believe justice has been done."

State Department studying asphalt blistering

The Mississippi State Highway Department is experiencing a new problem of blisters forming under the roadway surface of several recent resurfacing projects, Highway Department Chief Engineer James Quin reports.

Highway Department engineers fear that the blisters may ultimately cause separation of the various layers of asphalt and cracking of the pavement.

Quin said the problem has occurred on Hwy. 16 between Canton and Carthage, Hwy. 15 between Newton and Decatur, Hwy. 12 between Kosciusko and the Choctaw County Line, and Hwy. 82 in Webster County.

The department's early investigation has revealed that the blisters are caused by carbon dioxide and methane gas between the layers of asphalt. The source of the gas has not yet been determined.

Engineers of the Highway Department's Research and Development Division and district testing engineers are studying the problem and have reviewed reports from other states which have experienced similar problems in recent years. In addition, samples of the pavement have been forwarded to the Federal Highway Administration Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C. for further analysis.

"I'm filing for bankruptcy to save my building," she explained. "I'm going to comply with the Chapter 13 and Chapter 11 laws and everyone will be paid what I can afford."

"I've spent $97,000 out of my own pocket on that building because we have been making only enough money to pay our employees," Ms. Ray added.

The Night Gallery will not be closed.

This has to be made known to the people, because I don't want a bad reputation in Bay St. Louis. In the past I have always paid my bills," she said.

She added that she originally came to Bay St. Louis intending to become part of the community and that her intentions have not changed.

"I said I would help the town if I made it. When I make it, I want to help the police department, the senior citizens and the sheriff's department. I want people to know that," Ms. Ray stated.

DAR chapter sponsoring Constitution Week prizes

In an effort to include patriotic citizens of all ages in Constitution Week activities several contests will be held and prizes of handsome American Flag kits will be awarded winners, according to Joe Pilet, spokesman for Friendship Oak Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The chapter will sponsor the contests with prizes donated by several business and commercial establishments.

Pilet is chapter chair person for Constitution Week Sept. 17 through Sept. 23.

Constitution Week was first proclaimed by an Act of Congress in 1956 and written into Public Law No. 915.

This law guarantees the issuing of a proclamation each year by the President of the United States designating Sept. 17-23 as Constitution Week and calling upon all citizens to pay special attention to the Constitution and to the advantages of American citizenship.

Pilet said she has received a proclamation signed by Mississippi Governor Bill Allain, and assurance from the mayor of Bay St. Louis and Waveland as well as the president of the Board of Supervisors, Adolph Keller, that they will publish proclamations in the near future.

"Let's all get involved in these Constitution Week contests," Pilet said.

A prize will be awarded for best radio spot announcement, and to students of American History only, prizes for the best essays.

The flag kits consist of hardware installation brackets, aluminum flag poles and 3 x 5 foot American Flags.

Pilet said her committee would publish simple rules for entering the contests and report the names of those who have provided the flags in the Sea Coast Echo.

"This advance announcement about the contest is made," Pilet said "in order to give those interested a little time to read the constitution or review its amendments."

"The National Society Daughters of the American Revolution is a patriotic organization," Pilet said "and our organization actively stresses the importance of our Constitution. It is the supreme law of our country and guarantees freedoms unknown to any other country in the world."

Pilet also praised the citizens for their eager cooperation and ready support. "They are so enthusiastic that we are certain our Constitution Week celebration will be an outstanding success," she declared.

The art of weaving by tying knots was probably begun in the 1200s by Arabians but it wasn't called macrame until about the 1400s. That's an Arabic or Turkish word meaning fringe.

NATIVE REMEDIES

Most of the so-called "wonder drugs" of the 1930s to 1960s, such as digitalis for heart failure, reserpine for tranquilizers and vincristine for treating leukemia, were derived from plants that had been used for centuries by native peoples, reports 'International Wildlife' magazine.

Winn-Dixie's fiscal earnings up 4 percent

Net earnings were $115,916,000 or $2.83 per share for 1984, up from $113,460,000 or $2.72 per share for 1983.

Fourth quarter 1984 net earnings were $31,926,000 or $0.78 per share compared with $26,550,000 or $0.64 per share for fourth quarter 1983.

Sales were $7,302,369,000 for fiscal year 1984, up 4 percent from $7,018,605,000 for the fiscal year ended 1983.

Fiscal 1984 was the 50th consecutive year of sales increases.

Monthly cash dividends were increased effective July, 1984, for the 41st consecutive year to 14 cents per share from 13 cents the prior year, an increase of 7.7 percent.

The new annual rate of $1.68 per share compares to $1.56 per share paid during fiscal 1984.

During the year, 72 new stores were opened, 51 stores were closed and 98 stores were remodeled including 65 enlargements, ending the year with 1,231 stores in operation as compared with 1,210 last year.

Appraisals necessary to protect antiques

By Sarah Fountain

A current bill of sale can serve as an appraisal whenever an antique is purchased from a reputable antique dealer or auction house.

A list of the types of appraisal, depending on purpose, follows:

Insurance appraisals should cover (at least) the purchase price, cost of framing, installation, shipping (in case an item is intended to loan for exhibit, etc.), and other direct expenses.

In view of rising prices, an effort should be made to insure either the replacement cost or include an escalator clause to reflect the annual increase of value based on the inflation rate.

Donation appraisals are needed when a would-be donor of a work of art, piece of furniture or any potential valuable wishes to get the benefit of a tax deduction.

The buyer should seek one or more appraisals from reputable and expert dealers, auction houses, museum curators or other authorities.

This is to establish a justifiable base that will stand up in the eyes of the IRS. Estate appraisals are needed since taxes (including capital gains tax) are assessed on the value of artwork or antiques at the time of bequest or death.

It is in the interest of the estate and the beneficiaries to document as low a value as can be justified. Some elements which enter into appraisals of this kind are marketability (and cost of marketing), condition of the piece, possible need for repairs or restoration, etc.

Auction appraisals are for pieces consigned to an auction house. It is customary to obtain low and high estimates of the expected proceeds. This in turn may represent the base for fixing a reserve price (the amount less the auction house's selling commission) that must be bid at the auction in order to make the sale go through.

Collateral appraisals are needed if the buyer wishes to use the item as security to obtain a loan. A willing dealer will use a quick liquidation appraisal, usually a percentage—say 50 to 60 percent—of an auctioneer's lower estimate. Keep in mind the dealer's selling commissions, carrying costs and other applicable expenses must be taken into consideration.

says the price obtained at an auction, held within a reasonable time of the valuation date, determines fair market value.

Everyone seeking an appraisal should be familiar with replacement cost and fair market value terms. Many times, such as when appraisals are given for insurance purposes, replacement cost will be the value stated. It reflects the price the buyer would have to pay to find an item of comparable quality to the one being insured.

It takes into consideration both foreign and domestic markets. Replacement cost also builds in inflationary precautions in lieu of the rapidly increasing cost of many valuables.

Fair market value is the price at which property would change hands between a willing buyer and a willing seller, neither buyer or seller having any compulsion to buy or sell and both parties having reasonable knowledge of the relevant facts." This figure is used to determine the value of tax-deductible donations and federal estate taxes.

Regardless of a buyer's need for an appraisal, be careful. An appraisal is only an opinion and as any good attorney knows, there can never be a set universal price for any one item.

An appraiser is not guaranteeing that such-and-such is the price, merely that to the best of his ability and based on the pertinent facts revealed, his price is the price most nearly approximating the item's worth.

An appraiser's education is never complete. Reference books are valued resources and very few competent appraisers are afraid to say "I don't know" and seek the advice of a fellow appraiser.

But for all their expertise and experience, appraisers cannot prevent the continued loss of property without compensation that occurs because so many people refuse to seek an appraisal at all. An appraisal is fundamental to the care and preservation of your valuables, and to the peace of mind that comes from knowing your investments are secure.

A SUDDEN TWIST
Yes, a sudden twist or jar can force a spinal bone out of place. This narrows the nerve openings between the spinal bones, resulting in nerves being pinched in the neck or back. When this occurs, and when the body organs which the pinched nerves supply become starved for this proper amount of nerve energy, they will malfunction, creating pain and disease in other areas of the body! Take the case of a boy who, when hit on the head, lost his hearing and later regained it when he suddenly turned and felt a pop in his neck! Or the case of a man who became ill in his stomach and after months of suffering, decided to try Chiropractic. We found a spinal problem pinching the nerve supply to his stomach. With our care he recovered. Chiropractic may aid you to regain your good health too—why wait?

Hunter orange requirement expanded

Leave baby deer alone, conservationists urge

Some Mississippians are at it again. Picking up fawn deer in the wild, thinking they have been abandoned by their mother.

Wrong thing to do, advises the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

"Right now, we are in the peak time for doe deer to be dropping fawns," says game division chief Seth Mott.

"And we are having somewhat of a problem with people picking up these new-born fawns, thinking the mother has left them. But this is not what is happening in the majority of the cases."

Mott said that when doe deer have fawns they leave them and come back at random time intervals to feed them. Then the parent leaves again, only to return and feed. Most of the time the mother is not far away.

"Young fawns have almost no scent, and this is their main way of avoiding predators," Mott explained. If the mother stays around a fawn for too long a period, she may attract a predator because of her scent, he said.

"Besides," Mott said, "it is very difficult to raise a deer. As it approaches one year of age, they become hard to handle and can hurt someone untrained in dealing with wild animals."

Conservation enforcement officials say that it is illegal to pick up deer in the wild and possess them. They advise to leave all deer alone.

NEW ORANGE LAW

If saving lives is a necessary part of the sport of hunting, then Mississippi has anted up to the hilt. This state is getting serious about saving lives in the field.

There was a time when someone went hunting during deer season, all he need wear was an orange hat, cap, or vest with his hunting attire. But all this was changed.

Now when you go to down your deer, you must have on at least 500 sq. inches of unbroken continuous daylight fluorescent hunter orange material during any open gun seasons on deer.

This new regulation by the five-member Commission on Wildlife Conservation took effect in late April.

"In our state, as in many states in the southeast, more hunters are becoming concentrated in smaller areas due to the loss of wildlife habitat," said executive director Lon Strong.

"So, in order to provide more protection to all hunters, we are requiring an increased amount of fluorescent orange to be worn during our gun seasons on deer."

Strong and other members of the Department of Wildlife Conservation have been studying the increased amount of fluorescent orange for a long time. They have received input from other states with similar requirements, and the reception by hunters at this year's public hearings has been favorable.

Many of the department's conservation officers are happy about the new hunter orange requirements. They say that in the past it has been too easy for hunters to simply take off their orange hat or cap, stuff it in their pocket, and hunt without it, then put it on when they see an enforcement officer approaching.

Unfortunately, some of these shooters ended up later as a vital statistic. Officers now believe that the continuous and unbroken 500 sq. in. of hunter orange means that much of this kind of behavior will be done away with, and more lives will be saved.

Department hunter safety officials say that there is no question that hunter education and the orange requirement save lives.

Figures show that during the 1972-73 hunting season, there were 34 fatalities during the hunting season.

From 1977 until now, this fatality has been reduced to about six per year, thanks largely to a statewide hunter education program and the hunter orange law.

"During this past deer season, 17 of the 35 hunting accidents occurred during the deer season," said hunter and boating safety director L. J. Smith.

"Five of the 14 fatalities last year occurred during the deer season. This year we're hoping to see a big reduction in this number due to the increased hunter orange requirement," Smith said.

"Of course some people look on all this as another inconvenience that the hunter must endure. But we're not trying to make it hard on anyone. All we're trying to do is save a life."

Smith said that six states have continuous hunter orange color requirements: Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Mississippi. Other states have requirements with varying amounts.

National Park Service lists record use of Gulf Islands

During 1983, Gulf Islands National Seashore experienced record visitation when 4,060,306 visitors enjoyed the area. This made Gulf Island National Seashore the 13th most visited area in the National Park System.

Although exceeded by two National Parks (Acadia and Great Smoky Mountains), and two National Historical Parks (C&O Canal and Independence), and by the National Capitol Parks in Washington, D.C., Gulf Islands was exceeded by only one of the ten National Seashores, Cape Cod in Massachusetts, with a visitation of 4,595,100.

While it is not as widely publicized and known as some other NPS areas in Florida, Gulf Islands National Seashore is the most heavily visited National Park Service area in the state. Gulf Islands National Seashore extends along the Gulf in both Florida and Mississippi; in Mississippi is the second most visited National Park Service area following only the Natchez Trace.

For 1984, Gulf Islands is 937,975 over this same period last year. Barring hurricanes or other major disruptions, visitation should exceed 5,000,000 in 1984.

The National Park Service statistics indicate that an average park visitor from the local day use area directly expends about $25 each day spent in the local economy. Such direct expenditures for recreational services are believed to indirectly generate more than twice that amount into the local economy through the ripple effects.

The National Park Service not only is protecting and preserving the rich cultural and natural heritage of Northwest Florida and Mississippi through the Gulf Islands National Seashore, but it is contributing significantly to the local economies.

MISSISSIPPI ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE

4395 South Drive
Jackson MS 39209

(601) 969-1631

A non-profit corporation chartered by the State of Mississippi, October 1969, for the prevention of cruelty to animals

SUMMER PET CARE

Hot weather health hazards to your pet can transform summertime's "easy living" into the tragedy of serious illness or even death for your dog or cat. While you are enjoying vacationing, picnicking, swimming, etc., the Mississippi Animal Rescue League asks you to please remember to give your pets special attention and protection.

SHELTER

Pets left outside must have a shady place to rest and lots of fresh water kept in the shade (a bowl of hot water in the blazing sun is worthless). A pet will collapse from heat very quickly on a hot day and can suffer brain damage or even death. If your cat or dog is an indoor pet, do not leave him outside more than a few minutes at a time if air conditioning is available indoors.

VENOMOUS INSECTS

In general venomous insect bites (bees, wasps, spiders, etc.) are painful, cause swelling and some skin destruction; however, if the animal is hypersensitized to the venom, death could occur due to shock and respiratory problems. If your pet is stung by an insect, call your veterinarian immediately. Putting ice on the area of the sting may help keep the venom local while you transport the animal to the hospital.

Year of The Ocean seminar series to continue Saturday

The predator-prey relationships among recreationally and commercially important finfish and shellfish will be discussed in the fifth "Year of the Ocean" seminar, "What Shall We Dine on Tonight? Asked the Trout."

Dr. Edwin Cake Jr., head of the oyster biology section of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory will make the presentation Saturday at 11 a.m. at the Laboratory's J.L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi. Until 1 p.m., Center admission will be free.

The color slide presentation will include the feeding habits of non-predatory species like the oyster and mullet along with food chains and interesting little-known predatory-prey relationships. The hour-long program is designed to be informative for the lay person. It will include an opportunity for questions.

With the GCRL since 1973, Dr. Cake supervised the design and construction of the first pilot seed oyster hatchery in the Gulf of Mexico, which is located on GCRL's Biloxi campus. Predatory-prey relationships of the sunray Venus clam was the subject of his Master's thesis at Florida State University, where he also earned his PhD.

The Florida native teaches upperclass and graduate level summer courses at GCRL in aquaculture and marine invertebrate zoology, and environmental science for the University of Southern Mississippi on the Gulf Park campus. He is an adjunct professor of zoology and aquaculture at eight universities.

Dr. Cake is qualified as an expert witness in the fields of biological oceanography, marine biology, estuarine biology, and oyster biology. He is a member of the Gulf Islands National Seashore Advisory Committee.

In addition to serving as president of the National Shellfisheries Association, Dr. Cake is managing editor of its Journal of Shellfish Research, and he holds four additional editorial positions. His own writings have been published extensively in professional journals.

Before beginning his professional studies, Dr. Cake served in the Air Force, including a six-month period at Keesler AFB.

Bay Area Youth Soccer sets girls registration

The Bay Area Youth Soccer, Inc. reports the beginning of the soccer season with the registration of girls on Tuesday, 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Waveland Small Animal Hospital on US-90 next to Todd's Steaks in Waveland.

All girls who are ages 5 through 18 are eligible to play. There will be at least one team in each of the age groups ranging from Under 8 (5-7 years old) to Under 19 (16-18 years old).

Each team will have between 15 to 18 players with players being assigned to teams on a first come, first served basis with preference for those who have played previously.

Any players who cannot be placed upon a team immediately will be placed upon a waiting list until enough players sign up to form another team or to replace girls who may drop during the season.

The registration fee is $15 and includes uniform, insurance and United States Youth Association membership. This fall the girls will play in a league with the recreation teams of Slidell starting Sept. 29. This will give the girls at least three weeks to practice first. The season will end Nov. 11.

Then in the spring the girls will play against other teams along the Gulf Coast until the District and State Tournaments in April/May, 1985.

The coaches, tentatively, for the girls include Kathy Edwards, Waddy LeBourgeois, Joann Duncan and Frank Gray.

Anyone else interested in helping the girls should contact Waddy LeBourgeois, girls' commissioner.

With the scarcity of reorganized sports for girls, soccer provides an excellent opportunity to participate with minimum possibility of physical injury and maximum exercise.

This sport has risen in popularity from just one team three years ago to four teams last year.

This year BAYS anticipates at least six teams devoted exclusively to the girls.

Waddy LeBourgeois urges all girls to come and register, and asks all of the coaches to come to assist and let the girls meet them.

ETV Brief

AIDS DOCUMENTARY

Mississippi Educational Television will telecast "AIDS: Profile of an Epidemic" at 9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 4.

The hour-long program is considered the first television documentary to provide a comprehensive examination of the medical, historical, personal and societal ramifications of the mysterious and often fatal disease known as Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

Edward Asner narrates "AIDS: Profile of an Epidemic," which includes interviews with scientists searching for a cure to the disease; medical experts who treat AIDS victims; and patients and their families battling not only the disease itself but the emotional traumas that accompany it.

Two medical experts provide a report on the probable viral cause of AIDS and the prospects for the future. Dr. Harold Jaffe of the Center for Disease Control and Dr. Jeffrey Laurence of New York Hospital/Cornell Medical Center explain what new discoveries mean and how long it may take to find a cure and a vaccine.

AIDS first reached the forefront of public awareness in 1979 when an outbreak of a rare and lethal disease began claiming the lives of young homosexual men in New York City and in California.

What was happening was the manifestation of a new and mysterious disorder that strips its victims of their natural immunities and leaves them vulnerable to an array of deadly diseases.

AIDS has reached epidemic proportions, striking more than 5,000 individuals and leading to the death of more than 40 percent of these patients so far.

Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries to host state association meeting

Gini Myers, Ilyne Stewart and Billie Ruddick of the Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries' Association, recently attended the National Association of Legal Secretaries 1984 Education Conference and 33rd annual meeting.

More than 600 members from every U.S. state participated in the educational workshops and business sessions during the week-long meeting held at the Hyatt Regency Phoenix Hotel, Phoenix, Ariz.

The two-day exposition provided participants an opportunity to view the latest office equipment, services, supplies, and publications for the legal office.

In addition to legal education sessions, members also attended workshops designed to assist them in their elected association offices and participated in the business sessions to amend bylaws and elect national officers for the coming year.

Chris C. Gaylon of Nashville, Tenn., was installed as the 1984-85 NALS president.

The National Association of Legal Secretaries is an organization of legal secretaries, legal assistants, law office administrators, court clerks, and other legal support personnel.

Its purpose is to encourage and provide continuing legal education for those engaged in all types of work of a legal nature.

NALS headquarters is located in Tulsa, Okla., with state and local organizations throughout the country.

Seafood festival plans announced

The third annual Biloxi Seafood Festival will take place Saturday, Sept. 29 from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the International Plaza in Biloxi.

The day's activities will include crafts and fine arts booths, game booths, entertainment, and an abundant supply of the seafood the Coast is famous for.

The evening will be capped off with an old-fashioned street dance from 7 to 9:30 p.m. with additional special festivities planned.

Persons who are interested in providing booths or entertainment should contact the Chamber of Commerce in Biloxi for further information.

Gulf Coast Hotels will be offering special room rates for visitors to the festival. Information about hotels will also be supplied by the Chamber upon request.

Brief

UNBOUND WAVES

The EPA has fined a Chicago pesticide manufacturer $450,000 for marketing a worthless product that supposedly repelled rats, mice and roaches with painful high-frequency sound waves, reports "National Wildlife" magazine. One restaurant owner said he'd been bilked when he saw two roaches mating in the trap.

Turner inauguration event slated at Ole Miss Saturday

Dr. R. Gerald Turner, a psychologist and experienced educator from Texas, will become The University of Mississippi's 22nd and youngest chancellor during inauguration ceremonies Saturday.

Amid a procession of black-gowned academicians and a distinguished guest list, Turner officially takes the reins of Mississippi's oldest higher education institution, which was chartered in 1848.

Ceremonies begin at 10 a.m. in the Tad Smith Coliseum. A reception follows from 2-4 p.m. in the mall area of the L.Q.C. Lamar Law Center.

Dr. Turner, 38, began serving as chancellor April 2, succeeding Dr. Porter L. Fortune Jr., who now serves as chancellor emeritus and distinguished professor of history.

The Board of Trustees of Mississippi Institutions of Higher Learning selected Turner from among three finalists who visited the campus for interviews. He was serving as executive assistant to University of Oklahoma president, Dr. William S. Banowsky, as well as acting provost.

He was previously associate vice president for university affairs at Pepperdine University in California.

A Texas native he earned a bachelor of science degree in psychology and mathematics from Abilene Christian University, and master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Texas at Austin.

Investiture of the new chancellor will be effected by Charles C. Jacobs Jr., president of the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning.

Salutations will be presented by Mississippi Gov. Bill Allain; Dr. Robert Marston, president of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges; Dr. Banowsky of the University of Oklahoma; Dr. Joseph M. Horn, associate dean of liberal arts at the University of Texas; Dr. Michael De L. Landon, president of the Faculty Senate; Dr. James L. Achord, Faculty Senate President at the University Medical Center in Jackson.

Michael D. Bunyard, director of admissions at the Medical Center, representing the staff in Jackson; Benjamin M. Logan of Tupelo, Oxford campus Associated Student Body president; Malcolm S. Moore Jr., president of the Medical Center campus Associated Student Body and John H. Geary, president of the university's Alumni Association.

Invocation will be made by Dr. William J. Teague, president of Abilene Christian. A pre-ceremony concert will be performed by the University Symphonic Band, directed by Dr. Luther M. Snaveley Jr. and the University Concert Singers, directed by Dr. Jerry Jordan.

Welcoming remarks and presentation of special guests will be made by Dr. Norman C. Nelson, vice chancellor for health affairs at the University Medical Center.

On Friday at 8 p.m., prior to the inauguration, the Chancellor's Concert in Fulton Chapel will be free to the public. It will feature a variety of performances, featuring the University Chorus, the Ole Miss Connection singing group, the Symphonic Band and Faculty Brass, the University Concert Singers and performers in the recently-presented musical comedy, "Annie."

FULBRIGHT SCHOLAR—A Delgado Community College associate professor, Dr. Jacqueline Vidrine of Bay St. Louis, has been selected through international competition for a Senior Fulbright Scholarship lectureship and research position at the University of the West Indies in Trinidad. Dr. Vidrine is the daughter of Drouet and Jacqueline Vidrine of Ville Platte, La. The nine-month fellowship, which will begin in September, is one of the few ever awarded to a community college faculty member. Dr. Vidrine, who is head of manual communication/interpreter training at Delgado, will be responsible for organizing a special education program on the undergraduate and graduate levels at the university. She also will develop a program leading to certification for teachers of the deaf.

Alabama memorial park declares Boy Scout Month

August has been designated as Boy Scout Month at the USS Alabama Battleship Memorial Park in Mobile.

Captain William J. Diffley, executive director, says a number of special opportunities will be available to visiting scout troops.

"We are encouraging scouts to visit the battleship and submarine USS Drum to learn more about the history behind these ships," Diffley noted.

The Battleship Commission has designed a special USS Alabama Battleship patch for visiting scouts.

A special rate of $2 per scout is being offered during August. Troop leaders will be admitted free of charge.

For an information kit, leaders should contact the Scout Coordinator, c/o USS Alabama, P.O. Box 64, Mobile, Ala. 36601.

Diffley says a special compartment is being prepared on board the battleship for overnight accommodations of up to 30 scouts.

"We are making it possible for several troops to spend the night on board and find out how the seamen of World War II lived while at sea."

The battleship USS Alabama is a memorial to Alabama veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict. The battleship, submarine USS Drum and other attractions in the 75 acre park are open to visitors daily from 8 a.m. until sunset.

Battleship Park is located in Mobile on Battleship Parkway, just off I-10 on Mobile Bay.

Advance tickets urged for Biloxi Greek Night

The 17th annual Greek Night at Mississippi Gulf Coast Convention Center in Biloxi will be Saturday, Oct. 27.

Greek Night is an annual fund raising event for the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church in Biloxi.

Greek Night co-chairmen this year are Photine N. Vlahos of Biloxi and E.L. Boro of Long Beach.

They said tickets may be purchased through church members, by contacting the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum ticket office, All Around the House in Pascagoula, or by calling Peter Psikogiorgos of Long Beach, ticket chairman, at 864-3321.

Waveland Legion, Auxiliary install officers, announce honor winners

STATE'S NUMBER ONE UNIT—Dorothy Biehlstein, Unit 77 immediate past president, displays a Department President's Award made to the outstanding unit in the state at the recent annual Mississippi Legion Auxiliary State Convention in Tupelo. The 1983-1984 citation naming Unit 77 first in the Mississippi Department from among 102 units in the state, is the second such honor in a row for the Waveland group. In addition, Unit 77 took Department President's Award runnerup honors in 1981-1982. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

LIN RUTHERFORD
American Legion

ELEANOR MARCH
President Unit 77
American Legion Auxiliary

NATIONAL AWARDS—Pere Cabibi, left, 1983-84 legislative chairman; Irene Giacconi, center, legislative scrapbook chairman; and Beatrice Doyle, legislative narrative chairman for American Legion Auxiliary Unit 77 in Waveland, returned from a recent State Convention in Tupelo with National Legislative Commission First Place award for meritorious assistance in advancing the state and national legislative programs. Veterans, their dependents, national security, foreign relations and children and youth were priority areas of interest for the auxiliary for the year. At the local level, assistance was received from Mayor John Longo of Waveland and Mayor Larry Bennett of Bay St. Louis. At national level Senator Thad Cochran and Representative Trent Lott helped when called upon, the unit members reported. The legislative scrapbook held by Mrs. Giacconi was awarded first place out of 101 units participating. Mrs. Doyle delivered a 1,000-word narrative report on legislative activities which also captured a first place award. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

WINNING ESSAY—Dianne Tenney, center, 18, daughter of Mrs. Mae Tenney, left, and the late Earl J. Tenney, a U.S. Navy veteran of World War II, won a $200 scholarship from the Waveland American Legion Auxiliary and the Auxiliary's Mississippi Department. Ms. Tenney also submitted a winning essay in the auxiliary state president's special project to award scholarships to the children of Mississippi veterans.

Her paper on 'What Education Means To Me' earned another $392 award. Ms. Tenney, a 1984 graduate of Bay High, also won a 1984 ACT scholarship to Pearl River Junior College. Presenting the auxiliary awards is Dorothy Biehlestein, right, immediate past president of the Waveland unit. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS—Bourgeois, Stieffel, Ray Post No. 77 of the American Legion in Waveland presents Pearl River College President Marvin R. White, second from right, with a $6,000 check to cover twelve $500 scholarships which have been issued to Hancock County students attending Pearl River this fall. The check was presented to Dr. White by Lin Rutherford, post commander. Other post members participating in the presentation include Sidney Herbert, left, and Danny Carter, right. The Waveland American Legion is the largest contributor to Pearl River College's scholarship program. Post 77 also participates in children, youth and veteran programs as well as Mississippi's Boys and Girls State. In January the post expects to present Pearl River with another $6,000 to cover 12 scholarships for the spring semester.

Ole Miss to open first public fund drive

University of Mississippi Chancellor Gerald Turner who will be inaugurated Saturday as the 22nd and youngest leader in the Ole Miss' modern history, Friday will launch the university's first major fund-raising campaign.

Goal of "The Campaign for Ole Miss" is $25 million in private contributions. Turner said the drive is vital to "insure for future generations the rich educational experience that is Ole Miss."

Turner said the University stands at "challenging crossroads."

"A great disparity is developing between a large number of state universities that are maximizing their academic potential by combining funds from public and private sources to recruit and retain the best faculty and students," he said, "and those public institutions that are struggling with only public funding and limited private support."

"The universities in the second category can expect to lose their most talented faculty members and will experience a decline in the quality of students they are able to attract," he declared.

To forestall that problem, Turner said the campaign's top priority will be endowed faculty positions to enable Ole Miss "to get and keep the brightest and best academic minds among both faculty and students."

Endowed chairs require contributions from $750,000 to $1 million for senior faculty members; endowed professorships require $300,000 to $500,000; and endowed lectureships, $100,000 to $200,000.

He cited the establishment of the Newman Scholarship at Ole Miss by the family of W.R. (Buck) Newman of Jackson, which provides $20,000 for four years of study and ranks among the top grants in the country. Scholarship funds are being sought for both the Oxford and Jackson campuses.

Other campaign goals include: LIBRARY COLLECTIONS— He noted that all three university libraries, for the overall Oxford campus, the School of Law and the University Medical Center, are good, but have a barely adequate number of volumes for accreditation.

CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF SOUTHERN CULTURE— A model program in regional studies, the center is located in aged Barnard Observatory, which needs extensive renovation. Other funds would be used to support scholarly programs which preserve and promote the unique culture of the South. The center attract scholars from throughout the world.

CENTER FOR ELECTRONIC INFORMATION MANAGEMENT— It would address the need for a new generation of telecommunications leaders in a rapidly growing and changing billion dollar industry.

TEACHING MUSEUM RESOURCES— Funds would allow the University Museum to obtain, conserve and display valuable teaching collections. Some of the contributions would be earmarked for conservation of 108 paintings of Mississippi primitive artist Theora Hamblett, to publish a catalog of all 356 and to establish a national Hamblett exhibition.

"We are anticipating that areas of the university other than these will receive support during the campaign," said Dr. Turner. "These have been highlighted as examples of how the university would be dramatically assisted by public support."

"This is the first major funds drive since the university opened its doors in 1848," he said. "The campaign will honor our legacy of achievement with vital dollars that will brighten the vision that we hold for tomorrow."

members attended a 5:30 p.m. Mass Our Lady of The Gulf Church offered for them and their families.

Climaxing the reunion Saturday evening was a candlelight dinner at the Landmark Restaurant for class members and their spouses.

Attending from out-of-town were Lynnette Kergosien Bourge of Thibodaux, La.; Jeannie Koehle Irwin of Foley, Ala.; Gwen Heitzman Pendergraft of San Antonio, Tex.; Linda French Wittman of Pass Christian; Mary Louise Peranich Cambre of Metairie, La.; Mary Kay Garst Heeb of Vidor, Tex.; Rosemary Compretta Wittman of Fairhope, Ala.; and Patricia Morreale Garriga of Pascagoula.

Local residents attending were Linda Ladner Tomasich, Nannette Penrose Stroh, Linda Erskine Curet, Jean Larrou Prescott, Celeste Chevis Proulx, Rosalie Coward Kergosien and Malena Vassalli Strong.

HISTORIAN AWARD— Edythe Wilhelm, outgoing historian for Waveland American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 77, displays the state Historian Award presented to the unit at a recent Mississippi convention in Tupelo.

SJA class of '58 holds 25th reunion

The St. Joseph's Academy class of 1958 recently celebrated its 25th reunion.

Friday night a old-time bonfire with wiener and marshmallows was held on the beach, giving those who attended the opportunity to meet classmates' families.

On Saturday afternoon a tea was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, giving the girls a chance to chat and reminisce. Gifts were given to Gwen Pendergraft for traveling the farthest; Lynnette Bourge who has changed the least; and Linda Curet for the most grandchildren. All girls received a souvenir brandy glass with SJA etched on it.

Pictures were taken at Our Lady of the Woods Shrine on the former SJA grounds, then most of the class

ETV Brief

TWAIN MAGIC

Mark Twain's "The Mysterious Stranger" starring Fred Gwynne, Christopher Makepeace and Lance Kerwin will be rebroadcast on "Great Performances" at 9 p.m. Monday, Aug. 27, on Mississippi ETV. The program was first seen on ETV in 1982.

In the fantasy, Twain glides from dream to reality, from the magical to the mundane.

At one moment the character "4" (Kerwin) instructs his friend August (Makepeace) in a difficult lesson: "Life is a dream. God, man, the sun and moon and stars—it's all a dream."

At another moment he is a prankster fresh out of Huck Finn, delighting his pal with taste treats centuries away from discovery: Fried Spring Chicken—milk-and-flour gravy from Alabama. Try it, August, and grieve for the angels, 'cause they ain't got it."

In the story Balthasar (Gwynne), the bumbling magician of the Schloss Mossam, expounds his knowledge of the universe to August Feldner (Makepeace), a young printshop apprentice, but it is the "mysterious stranger" (Kerwin) who really opens Feldner's eyes to what lies beyond his immediate world.
